THE DAILY BULLETIN.

Published every afternoon and delivered in this city, the suburbs and Aberdeen by our carriers, at 6 CENTS a week.

It is welcomed in the households of men of both political parties, for the reason that it is more of a newspaper than a political journal.

Its wide circulation therefore makes it a valuable vehicle for business announcements, which we respectfully invite to our columns.

A GYPSY FAMILY.

Customs and Habits—Life on the Road.

Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer Sun.

"Will the Mister let me read his fortune?" was the salutation the reporter received as he approached the camp.

"I guess not, to-day," said he; "I have always had such good fortune that I would hate to be told that I am soon to be hung, or miss a large fortune, or be an heir to some great evil." The reporter changed the subject by asking:

"Don't you get tired of living this way?"

"No, for I never lived any other way. I was born by the side of the road, and have always lived in the road."

"Always lived in a tent and in wagons?"

"Yes, sir, all my life. I never slept under a shingle roof three nights in my life. I have been married fifteen years, and was married on the roadside. I have six children living and three dead. They are buried in a cemetery; we always bury our dead in a cemetery, but have no ceremony."

"I understand there is a band of gypsies camped near Macon; are you a part of that band?"

"No, sir; we always travel alone. One family is enough, sir. When a large company is together you lose control of your children. Here we are by ourselves and there are no difficulties to settle or occasion to fight."

"Do the boys and girls ever fall in love?"

"Oh, yes; we have our sparking days, like you people, and have long courtships, and fall in love at first sight like any one else, and go before a magistrate and get married."

By this time the man had finished feeding his team and came up, and the reporter introduced himself by remarking:

"You have some fine horses."

"Yes, I have some very good horses. I trade for and buy them until I get about a dozen, and then I take the surplus stock to the nearest sale stable and dispose of them."

"How far do you travel each season?"

"Well, about 600 to 1,000 miles. Last winter we camped about twenty-five miles from Augusta, Ga., during the cold weather, then we started north and got to Petersburg, Va., in May."

"Do you come south every winter?"

"Oh, no, we often stay in Ohio, wintering about Columbus or Dayton; sometime we winter at Harrisburg, Pa., and one or two winters we spent at Charles town, Va.,

"What becomes of your old people—do they always travel?"

"Usually they go with us as long as they live. I have seen them so old that they had to be taken out of the wagons and lifted in. Some at last secure homes and stay in some one place, but mostly they die in the tent. We sometimes have a hard time when one of the family is sick. Then we stop, sometimes for a good while, until they get better or die."

"Are all the bands that travel genuine gypsies?"

"Oh, no, bless your life. Lots of them are bogus. I can tell a true gypsy every time. We have a language of our own and we all talk it, so when I meet one who can not speak the true Roman language I know he is bogus. Once our custom forbade us to marry any one but our own people, but now marriages are often contracted with other people, and as they finally come into our company and become the heads of our families, we lose our purity. Some of these camps are not even related to us in any way, but under this way of living carry on a life of petty thieving to our discredit."

"Abram, you wash yourself for dinner; Sammy, you lay a few sticks under that kettle; Jenny, bring a loaf of bread from the wagon; come to dinner, George." Such was life in the gypsy's camp, a life each day of which is a journey, a new home and a breaking up of housekeeping.

The Wyoming Method.

San Francisco Chronicle.

They have learned how to live in Hilliard, Wyoming Territory, and are pleased with their lesson. As often as they get out of meat they replenish this way: A band of wicked-looking citizens go down to the Union Pacific track a ways, to where the trains run slowly and await the passage of the through express with its palace cars and tender passengers. As it is heard in the distance they take their places. A stuffed man made of straw is laid out by two deal coffins, a bit of baggage keeping his face from being seen, while the gang gather around a living victim, whom they are about to hang to a telegraph pole. It is a slim chance for the poor fellow, but the passengers run wild at the sight. The train is stopped. Volunteers run back to the scene. Explanation: Two noted horse-thieves are the scourge of the district, survivor penitent now, but the best time to hang him is when we have him. He's done thousands of dollars of damage. This suggests a ransom. The passengers take up a contribution and buy the poor devil's life for him. Then they carry him on to Hilliard and leave him. "Citizens in carriages" come riding home later with the ransom which they divide without a quarrel, and there is peace and pleasantry in Hilliard.

A Sharp Barber.

Gus de Smith is not very prompt in paying his debts. He is also in the habit of getting shaved on the credit system. Yesterday he was in the barber-shop getting shaved, but somehow he did not enjoy it very much, for his chin was bleeding in several places.

"What in the hades is the matter of that razor? I reckon it has not been sharpened in an age," said Gus.

"I dunno what's de matter wid de razor, sah. I always shaves you wid the same razor, and I sharpened dis heah razor on de berry day you paid me for de last shave, and jecs as soon as you makes an nuder payment I'll sharpen it some moah," said the tonsorial artist.—Texas Siftings.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, DEC. 7, 1881.

The Kentucky Central.

The irregularities in the running of trains on the Kentucky Central, and the failure of the road to provide cars for the transportation of freight, which has provoked the unfavorable criticism of the press and loud complaint from the public, is explained by Mr. C. L. Brown, its General Freight Agent, who was here on Tuesday. He says when the gauge of the road was changed last July from five to four and one half feet it made necessary the change of every locomotive and car on the road and when they were sent to the shops, it was found that at least seventy per cent. of them were in such condition as to be useless and they were accordingly condemned. Orders were made immediately for the new cars and locomotives needed, but owing to the unusual demand for rolling stock all over the country only a small number of the cars ordered have been supplied, and in consequence of this delay the Kentucky Central has been obliged to borrow and rent both cars and locomotives from other roads and such as they have obtained in this way have been old and worn out stock that are almost constantly in the shops for repairs. Mr. Brown assures us the road has done the very best it could under the circumstances, and that it is the intention of the company, at the earliest practicable moment to thoroughly equip the road and put it in the best repair. He says also that it is an erroneous idea that the road does not desire the business of this city and neighborhood. It is, he says, a most important territory to the Kentucky Central and it is ready at all times to make any reasonable concession to retain it. He requests us to ask the people to overlook for the present the unavoidable failings of his road, with the assurance that the remedy will be applied at the earliest possible moment.

The Washington Post of December 4th says: The annual message of Governor Blackburn, of Kentucky, discloses the existence of a very gratifying prosperity in the Blue Grass Commonwealth. The outstanding bonds of the State amount to only $180,394, while the State's money and bank and turnpike stock is estimated to be worth $708,133. The State tax is but forty-five cents on the hundred dollars, of which twenty cents goes to the school fund and five to the sinking fund. The remaining twenty cents are ample for the support of the State Government in all its departments. Few States can make so good a showing and none better. Certainly the future of Kentucky is bright and full of promise for a continued prosperity. There ought to be nothing in the way of the happiness of such a people, who, inhabiting a section of country naturally highly favored, and conducive to a long and healthy life, keep out of debt, live at peace with their neighbors, making each year more than they spend, and raise the fastest horses in the world. The only fault that can be urged against them seems to be that they have not so far appreciated politically the efforts of Judge Kelly to lift the whisky and tobacco tax, which is said to be slowly reducing them to a condition of poverty too melancholy to recite.

What They Say About Us.

The DAILY BULLETIN, an outgrowth of the weekly of the same name, has made its appearance at Maysville, Ky., and is destined to fill the bill for a sterling, true and reliable newspaper. The weekly is an old and valued friend of ours, and we are pleased to anticipate for its offspring a full measure of success, which we trust it will gather as its just reward.

FIGURES WON'T LIE.

Facts Furnished by the Assessors' Books Showing How Much of the "Weed" was Grown in Mason County in the Year 1880, and Where it was Grown.

An examination of the county assessors' book for the year 1880, enables us to produce some figures the consideration of which will no doubt be very gratifying to the people of this county. We doubt, very much, whether there are many counties in the State that surpass Mason county in the production of corn, wheat and tobacco. We give the figures below chiefly for the purpose of showing the quantity of the above products raised in the different precincts of this county. In the following list, the number of pounds of tobacco produced last year will be found opposite the names of the different precincts.

Fern Leaf.....	233,500 lbs.
Maysville No. 1.....	110,100 "
Germantown.....	131,100 "
Orangeburg.....	232,800 "
Murphysville.....	239,100 "
Maysville No. 2.....	236,150 "
Minerva.....	330,000 "
Sardis.....	372,800 "
Dover.....	385,100 "
Washington.....	427,200 "
Lewistown.....	526,300 "
Mayslick.....	1,404,200 "

Making a total of.....4,737,850 lbs. of tobacco produced last year in the county. After procuring the above, we found that there were 28,000 lbs. assessed to the colored people of the county, increasing the above total for the county to 4,765,850 lbs.

In the next list will be found the number of bushels of wheat assessed:

Germantown.....	4,115 bushels.
Minerva.....	7,960 "
Maysville No. 1.....	9,150 "
Murphysville.....	10,115 "
Dover.....	11,290 "
Sardis.....	12,760 "
Orangeburg.....	14,455 "
Fern Leaf.....	14,800 "
Maysville No. 2.....	19,810 "
Washington.....	25,110 "
Lewistown.....	45,310 "
Mayslick.....	67,670 "

To this add 1,975 bush. assessed to colored folks, and we have a total of 245,110 bushels assessed for year 1880

Next we give a list containing the quantity of corn assessed.

Germantown.....	18,050 bushels
Maysville No. 1.....	22,100 "
Dover.....	31,100 "
Minerva.....	31,450 "
Sardis.....	39,290 "
Murphysville.....	42,800 "
Fern Leaf.....	50,200 "
Maysville No. 2.....	54,450 "
Orangeburg.....	60,150 "
Washington.....	85,150 "
Lewistown.....	113,885 "
Mayslick.....	162,250 "

Total.....710,875 bushels. To this add 4,500 bushels "given in" by the colored people of the county, and we have a total of 715,375 bushels of corn produced last year. An examination of the above, furnishes the fact that Mayslick precinct surpasses all the others in the production of the above articles of commerce.

We are again called upon to mourn the loss of another valued citizen, Mr. Conrad Phister, who died on Tuesday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ralston, near Newport Ky. He was born in Philadelphia in October, 1795, and was consequently in his eighty-seventh year. He came to Maysville July 23rd 1814, and lived here ever since, with the exception of the last two years spent with his daughter, at Newport. He was a good citizen, honest and upright in all his dealings, and will be much lamented by the entire community. The remains will be interred at the cemetery, Thursday, at half past ten o'clock, from the M. E. church, south after services by Rev. M. D. Reynolds.

J. E. BLAINE & Co., point with pride to their elegant display of holiday goods this season, and they are pleased to add, they are going off like "hot cakes."

SEVERAL annoying errors, both in the arrangement of the matter and the typography of Rev. M. D. Reynold's sermon published last week, are to be apologized for. Our readers will please blame the printers and not Mr. Reynolds.

SOME time ago, it will be remembered, the stores of Messrs. Kuckley and Elliott, at Germantown were broken into and robbed, and that a man giving his name as Albert Brown, was arrested at Minerva, suspected of the crime. A pistol found on his person warranted his being held by the officers. The day following a part of the stolen goods were found near Minerva. It is now known that the prisoner's real name is Merse and that he has been in correspondence with Frank L. Day, who is now in jail at Cincinnati, charged with robbing stores at Dover. A letter to Day to which Brown signed the name James Merse was intercepted, since his imprisonment. The letter was a request for money.
